

Navigation

- Home
- Log in
- Register

Journals

- Browse current issues

Groups

- Browse groups

Experimental Features

- Import from BibTeX

skoch3's tags

All tags in skoch3's library

Filter:

3d accessibility
 acousto-optic actin
 actuation afm
 aggregation aods atpase audiology
 beads biochemistry
 biomems biophysics
 bose brownian carbon
 casmir casmir-polder
 chemistry chromatin condensate cool
 damage dfs
 dielectrophoresis
 diffraction dna dots drosophila dynamic
 dynamics einstein
 electromagnet
 electromagnetic
 enyzme enzyme fibrin
 fibrinogen field
 fingers fluctuation
 fluorescence force genomics hidden
 histone hydrophilic
 hydrophobic ice
 image imaging
 initiation
 interdigitated kinesin
 liquids looping
 magnetic mapping
 markov mems
 metagenomics
 microbial

Chemically Tunable Nanoscale Propellers of Liquids

Physical Review Letters, Vol. 98, No. 26. (2007)

Authors

- Wang B, Kral P

Online Article

- DOI: View article online
- APS Permanent Link: View article online
- Scitation (AIP): View article online

Note: You or your institution must have access rights to this article. CiteULike will not help you view an online article which you aren't authorized to view.

skoch3's tags for this article

- chemistry hydrophilic hydrophobic liquids nanoscale physics pump

Everyone's tags for this article

- chemistry hydrophilic hydrophobic liquids nanoscale physics pump

Who has this article in their libraries?

- skoch3

Abstract

We explore the limits of liquid pumping by "classical propellers" with molecular-scale blades. Our molecular dynamics simulations reveal a huge sensitivity of pumping to

